

The African Elephant

The African elephant lives south of the Sahara Desert in Africa. They need large ears to cool off their bodies. Some live on the flat grasslands, called savannahs, while others live in the forest. The elephants that live in the forest have a smaller body and tusks than the elephants that live on the savannahs.

Features:

- Swayed back (dip in its back)
- Flat forehead
- Trunk has rings all the way down
- Trunk has two fingers at the tip
- Ears are large and wide